

Hey School Board Member,

How does the modern school system instill, "Respect and moral behavior."? The easy example, look at kids coming out of the school system. How much respect do they have? How moral are they?

Where in public school is it taught that eternal life through Jesus Christ's forgiveness of sin is necessary?

Where in Pre-K are they teaching about Jesus Christ, God, and the 10 commandments? Where are they teaching moral law?

School Board Member, you have been corrupted by that immoral world and are trying to justify that corruption. You are attempting to justify your stance taken over a large portion of your life you know is wrong. You are wrong, you are not preaching the gospel, nor are you living a "Godly" life by further destroying the family. A government agency that is pulling kids away from their parents, by coercion, convenience, or other means, and not teaching them anything other than conformity to worldly wisdom is wrong.

You have tried to justify wrong behavior and decision making in your own life, through an incorrect interpretation of scripture. You are doing your family first, and secondarily those you touch through influence, a great disservice by not being honest with yourself and God. You have distorted your ability to think clearly and reason soundly. Mercy and Judgement. Mercy alone is called appeasement, and this destroys justice, and many other great things in a society. Christianity does not remove judgement from this life, nor does it remove reasonable common sense, as much as we want and try to make that the case.

Pre-K is not Godly. Pre-K is not healthy. Removing parents from the family destroys the family, no matter what way you slice it. We can redefine family to make us all feel better, which I'm sure will happen very soon, but we are further deluding ourselves. The removal and destruction of the family unit is another nail in the coffin for our society, and it's a nail we are hammering of our own "free will". Pulling kids away from their parents is a destruction of the family.

You have a choice. Repent from your prideful ways, thoughts, and deeds, and reconfirm your life to Christ in humility, and start acting like a real Christian or you continue down this path and leave incredible destruction in your wake from broken families and a further destroyed culture.

Once again, if you'd like to get together in person to discuss this I'm open. Let me know via email a time and we'll go from there.

Sincerely,

Jared
