If you are unable to travel, consider contributing a donation to coachdavelive.com to help folks that are unable to recover from the effects of Hurricane Michael. Your sacrifice will cover expenses on our next trip to Panama City in February and subsequent trips to serve and assist these families and other folks in need. God bless you and your decision to serve. Please share this story and need with others.

Victims in the path of hurricane Michael suffered similar losses to those in a warzone. Estimates indicate that more than $1.5 billion in timber was destroyed. Majestic pines and massive oak trees were as toothpicks and the destruction was unimaginable. Volunteer and contracted workers have poured into Panama City, Florida to assist over the past months to serve those in need. Now, the voice of the media has moved on to other topics while those without the physical, emotional or financial ability survive. Many lack power, water and septic services due to the countless trees and debris that remain.

Men, women and children with hearts to serve travels from more than 10 states all over the US and Canada to render aid to those in need. Setting aside personal priorities we contribute our time, equipment and efforts to help as many as we can. Working onsite with local coordinators, during our last effort, we visit and assisted sixteen homeowners that were unable to remove remains of the storm.
