

"The civilized world has been thoroughly saturated by Christianity for two thousand years. Any country grounded in Christian values cannot be overthrown until those roots are cut. But to cut the roots, to change culture, a long march through the institutions [education, government, religion] is necessary. Only then will power fall into our laps like ripened fruit."

Antonio Gramsci